THE LOAN.

A private letter from London, dated September 16th, has the following reference to the Hawaiian Government loan: "I see the new Hawaiian loan advertised here, and I hope it will be a success and bring the country good." It appears evident that no time has been lost in placing our securities on the market, but as the Act under which the loan is to be raised was only approved October 15th, and the Financial Agent authorized to negotiate it was appointed October 23d, it would appear as if the advertisement of the loan in London early in September was premature. Indeed, the first Loan Act, under which no executive action was taken, was only approved on the 1st September.

THE HARBOR.

Our esteemed contemporary, the "Herald," is evidently afflicted with water on the brain, and sea water at that. We are sorry for it, because we had hoped that he would have had a long and prosperous career. But harbor improvements are too weighty for him. He has evidently got into deep water, and we can only hope that he will be able to swim to the edge, about which he writes so feelingly, and save his life. It is really of no consequence to the country whether our friend thinks the water space of the harbor is lessened by reducing the tidal area or is enlarged thereby. To speak without reserve of any kind, however, we may reasonably expect, after late editorials, that the "Herald" will next attempt to demonstrate that a pint measure holds a quart. Unless he can do this, his harbor exposition prophethood is not.

A DIPLOMATIC CHANGE.

We learn that Mons. Henri Feer, Consul and Commissioner of the French Republic, received by last mail from the Paris Foreign Office a notification that his request to retire from the service on a pension had been granted, and that on this occasion the President of the French Republic was pleased to confer upon him a higher honorary rank. Mons. Laurent Cochelet, now acting at Melbourne, has been appointed to succeed Mons. H. Feer as French Consul and Commissioner near the Hawaiian Court. M. Feer was named at Honolulu on the 4th of October, 1880, and took possession of his post on the 15th of May following. M. Laurent Cochelet is expected to arrive in our Capital by one of the next Australian steamers. We are well assured that we only voice the sentiment of all classes in this community in expressing regret that Mons. H. Feer and his amiable family are about to take their departure from this Kingdom. During their stay here they have contributed largely, by their refined tastes and social qualities, to extend and strengthen the respect which this country should ever entertain for the French nation.

ABOUT DOMESTIC HELP.

There is but one opinion among heads of families who employ domestic servants in this country, which is, that the quality of the service is inferior and the cost exorbitant. As a matter of necessity the preference is given to Chinese; as a matter of choice female help would be preferred in nearly every instance for chamber work, leaving the more laborious duties about the home to be performed by the ubiquitous Chinaman. But female servants are a luxury few can afford, although in time the rising generation of Portuguese females may afford some little measure of choice. However, the conditions of industrial and social life on these Islands give very little hope for present relief from that quarter. There are so many openings for comparative independence from the drudgery of hired labor, that Portuguese immigrants are among the first to perceive and utilize, that we incline to believe that as a rule they will prefer to toil on their own account even on less advantageous terms for themselves than to work for wages. This more especially applies to the wives and daughters of Portuguese settlers, whose industrious habits will be turned to account at home, while the male members of the family go out daily to earn money. And in the case of the Japanese it is too early to speak positively. As a rule, however, they are not appreciated as domestics.

This is a very important question, however, in its social as well as in its economic bearings. The large preponderance of adult males over females in the country renders the growth of population by natural increase almost impossible. Indeed, were immigration to cease, we are satisfied that the deaths would soon outnumber the births, despite the fertility of the Portuguese. Under these circumstances the founding of homes and raising of families would not progress at an encouraging rate. The remedy for all this appears to be to introduce, for some time at least, a preponderance of female immigrants for domestic service. There need not be much difficulty in the way of this if the Immigration Bureau goes to work the right way. A leading New York paper states that "a well-known Canadian minister says that the majority of hired girls in Canada earn but $3 a month." Allowing that this is somewhat exaggerated, there is still a substratum of truth in the statement. Now, if we are to have a direct line of steamships from the Pacific Coast in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railroad, it might be arranged to bring young women, of good moral character, trained to domestic service, in such numbers as would render housekeepers in this city comparatively independent of Chinese help, and at the same time give assurance that the family would be preserved, as a Hawaiian institution, despite the present tendency in an opposite direction. A guarantee might be given, by householders pledging themselves in advance to employ these young women upon arrival, and care could be taken to have them suitably protected during their journey hither.

We throw out this suggestion as worthy of some consideration, unless it be determined to reduce the population of this Kingdom to two classes, namely a handful of men having the command of capital, and a large community of alien and servile laborers who would have no stake or interest in the country. The wages which might be guaranteed to female servants either in Canada, the Eastern States, or Europe, would in itself insure an accession of large numbers of this very desirable class. There is no reason why the households of the Kingdom should be practically controlled by the Chinese, through their monopolizing the supply and controlling the disposition of domestic help. An immigration of this kind would also greatly simplify Christian endeavor in our midst, and on that account is to be commended.

Tonight's Pin Pool Match.

Messrs. Lon Morris and J. F. B. McCleery will play their pin pool match for $250 aside this evening, commencing at 7:30 sharp, at the Commercial Billiard Room, corner of Nuuanu and Berea streets. A most interesting exhibition will be witnessed, as both men are champions at the game. It is played with three balls and five small wooden pins, which are set up in the middle of the table, diamond fashion, each pin having a value to accord with the position it occupies. Neither caroms nor hazards count. When the pins are arranged the order of the players is determined in like manner as in fifteen-ball pool; after which each player receives a little numbered ball, the number of which is not known to any of his opponents. The object of the players is to knock down as many pins as will count thirty-one when the number on the small ball held by him is added to their aggregate; thus, if the small ball be No. 9, the player will have to gain twenty-two points on the pins before calling game, and whoever first gets thirty-one points in this manner wins the pool.
